President's Message – Gayleen Creelman, CITT

We are winding down another year as 2007 is quickly drawing to a close. I don't know about the rest of you, but it sure does seem that time is moving too fast. Maybe it is having a family or maybe it is just the pace of life is that much faster than a few years ago, but I just want to take this time to remind us all why we are really here.

- Remember to take the time each day to say thank you..... It does not have to be for anything significant, just sincere.

- Remember to hug someone. It is phenomenal what this simple gesture can do to your state of mind.
- Remember to appreciate all those who work for us and for whom you work for. Not all are fortunate to be in the position we are in and have a job.
- Remember to enjoy the world that we have the privilege to live in, but also consider that there are many generations to come and we need to ensure that they have a world as nice, if not better, than we have today.
- Remember to enjoy life. We all need a break sometime to be with those that we love. Do the things that you like to do.
- Remember to be happy with yourself and it will reflect in the things that you do and the people you socialize with.

All the best to you and your families in this holiday season and for the coming year.
